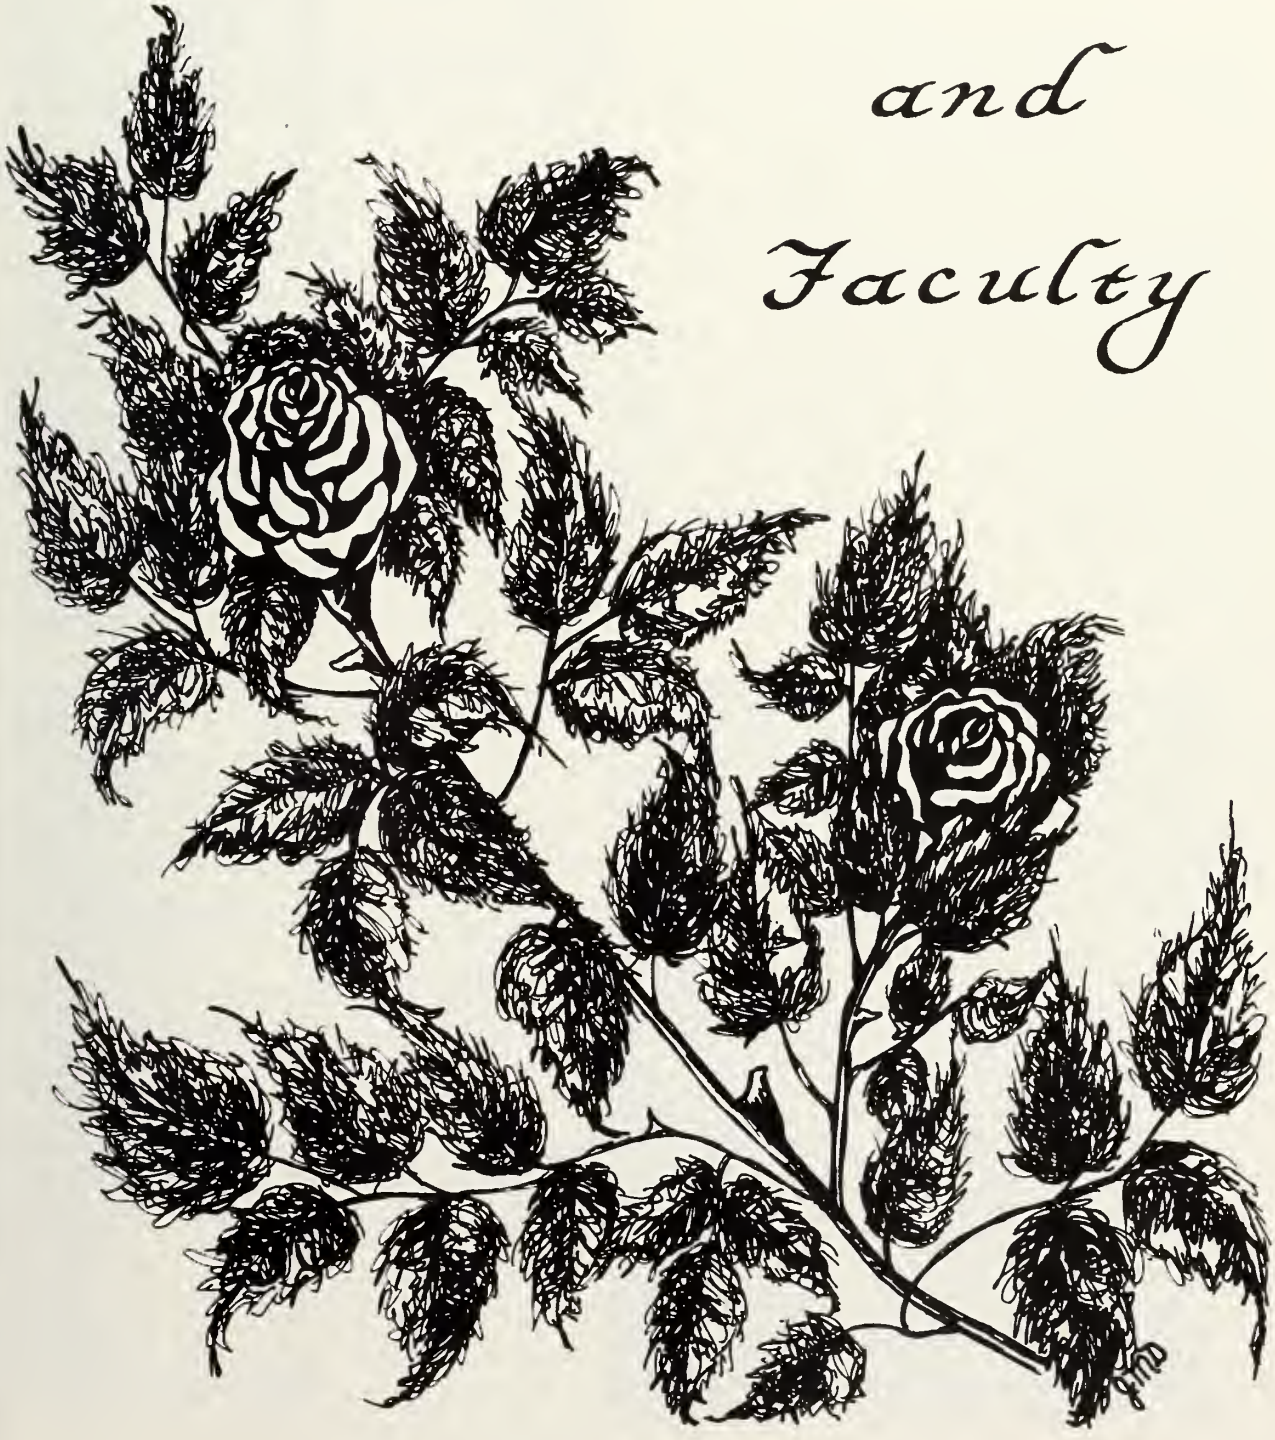
Administration and Faculty



Commencement Address
Regis College
May 24, 1981

Your Eminence, Trustees, Honored Guests, Alumnae, Parents, Faculty, Relatives and Friends. — You are most welcome as we gather to honor the graduates of 1981.

There are two moments when I have the opportunity to share some thoughts with a class—and know that there is almost perfect attendance. (I have the chance to say a challenging hello and a loving good-bye!)

The day you entered Regis you heard about the mission of this College—and what together we were struggling to achieve. You were invited to become a vital, living part of this Catholic community of liberally educated women—and we tried to tell you what it would cost you—(not what it would cost your parents—we change that every year)—but what it would cost you remained consistent—the cost of discipleship. And now today—you are invited once again—to a greater challenge—or a different translation of the same challenge—the cost of leadership—for the cost in either case is total—it takes everything you have.

Yesterday you heard your student leaders describe the struggle, the doubts, the falling down and the getting up—and the mysterious, persistent inner call that was part of their achievement.

Within the past two months you have heard and seen on television dramatic, frightening examples of the cost of leadership that dares to put forth clear convictions. Perhaps more genuine to today is the example of a Regis graduate of the 70's, a successful young lawyer—voted outstanding member of her class from Boston College Law—who called last week. In the course of the conversation she said—"there are days when I know that only something I learned at Regis keeps me from giving in—not on the clear ethical issues but to the more subtle temptations of laziness, to mediocrity, to not checking a final footnote, to giving myself a free hour rather than my client. Whatever you call it, she said, I am grateful for I first understood it at Regis—in the faculty—in the staff, in my friends, in my parents!"

Well—I call it the gift of leadership—the willingness to give of yourself until it hurts—to desire to share what you have until you have nothing left—the courage to state convictions that are yours but may not be others—all the time knowing that this total living is a constant dying and a constant re-birth.

As the days go on—may all of you hear this call from within you—and may one of your memories of today be this public loving call from your alma mater to accept the gift.

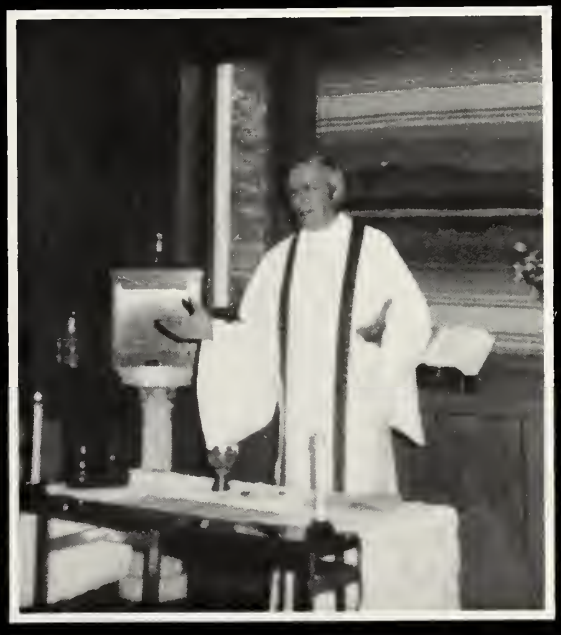
Four years ago, a few of us first met Father Charles Ring in the classroom while the majority met him behind the altar. It was there, at liturgies, we learned of scripture through the insights of a scholar. He taught us its traditional foundation, its significance in our lives today, and its potential in shaping Regis and the world into a more Christian community, inspired by the love of Jesus Christ in each individual's life.

When not celebrating Mass, Father Ring was even more visible; establishing campus ministry with Eucharistic Ministers, involving students in the most sacred part of the Mass; bringing liturgies to the dorms; guiding us through personal prayer; counseling students with the concern and insight of a parent, relating to us from his own personal experiences; and strengthening us by helping us put into perspective the tensions and pressures of academics.

We dedicate the 1981 Mount Regis to Father Charles Ring with sincere gratitude for the concern and love that he continually showed us these past four years. As we graduate and say our last goodbyes, we understand the full meaning of the words, "Go in peace to love and serve the Lord, and one another," because we learned it from a man who not only believed in the Lord, but in each one of us.

Class of 1981

We Dedicate This To You . . .



Fr. Charles Ring

A great deal of time and energy has gone into preparing this book. We hope you will enjoy it as much as we have enjoyed preparing it for you.

FROM ONE TO TWENTY

What Happens To Sweet First-Baby Girls When They Reach Twenty?
Skinned Knees Turn To Broken Hearts And Helping Hands Get Put In Pockets.
She Resists A Shoulder To Cry On And All Her Tears Seem To Be Used Up.
Have Her Feelings Dried Up Like Her First Prom Rose?
Is It Possible That She Still Cares, Even Though It Seems Not?
It Can Be Annoying, Puzzling, And Even Painful To Figure Out At Times,
But Enough Strain Causes The Blurred Reality To Clear Up Some.
She Will Never Again Be Our First Baby Girl Who Needed A Hand To Hold And Guide Her.

She Can Now Walk Alone And Needs Plenty Of Room To Do So Independently.
The Product Of Our Fertility Is Now Being Nourished By Maturity.
And Although She Seems To Be Growing Farther Away, Quicker Every Day,
Like A Vine That Has Grown Wildly, She Will Again Cling To The House Someday.
It May Not Be As Soon As We'd Like, But With Patience, Our First-Born Will Become A Woman.

It's Hard To Accept Her Added Years And Our Own At The Same Time, But Age Will Bring Us All Together.
She Is Beginning To Leave A Part Of Us Behind And Entering A New World That We Can Only Visit.
But Both Worlds Are A Part Of The Same Universe, Made By One Creator.
There Is Hope In Knowing That No Vine Can Grow And Survive If It Totally Cuts Itself From Its Roots.
It Can Temporarily Go Astray And Seem To Break Away, But It Must Return To The Source Of Love And Growth.

The Same Thing Happens To First-Born Baby Girls When They Reach Twenty.
In The Beginning And For Quite Some Time After, They Become So Attached That It's Almost Impossible For Them To Let Go.
Then All Of A Sudden They Break Away So Quickly That It Makes You Dizzy.
It Is Only In Realizing That A Balance Will Be Reached
Sooner Or Later That Makes The Hurt While Waiting Less Burdensome.
Someday, Our First Baby Girl May Again Accept A Hand To Hold And A Shoulder To Cry On . . .
But Only When She Knows Herself How It Really Feels When Her Own First-Born Is Struggling To Become An Adult At Twenty.

Sports are becoming increasingly popular at Regis. During the course of any day, one is bound to make reference to the construction of the athlethic facility or the new athletic director Dave Cowens. However, there is a group of sportsminded young women whose concerns rise beyond those of many other students. They are the members of the volleyball, basketball, tennis, and softball teams. These teams have struggled through the year without a gym. Yet, they have persevered, finding practice time at other surrounding colleges. Although they have had few victories, their spirit never died. It is because of this enthusiasm and hope that the need for a new athletic facility was recognized. Much admiration should be accorded these women.

CHRISTMAS DINNER

Each year, the Regis Community gathers together at the Christmas Banquet to celebrate the coming of the holy season. Many Regis traditions are found at this special occasion; Sophomore Class waitresses, presentation of gifts to the President, and class songs dedicated to each other.

Following the Christmas Banquet is the Candlelighting Ceremony. The Ceremony begins as the Seniors proceed into the Foyer with lighted candles, singing Christmas carols. The class presidents each light a candle, wishing the joys of the season to all.

CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY

CHRISTMAS SEMI-FORMAL

One of the Best-loved activities of the Christmas Season is the Semi-Formal. This year, two hundred couples gathered in the multi-purpose room and danced until 1 a.m. to the music of "Jay." It was a time of much laughter and fun for everyone — including the fathers, who volunteered as bartenders.

DECEMBER 1980

Every year, Seniors begin counting the days until Graduation. It is an annual tradition to begin this countdown with the 100 Days Party. On February 12th, the Class of 1981 began its final countdown. In 100 days, Commencement Day will arrive. The Class of 1981 shall bid farewell to Regis.

Each year, it is traditional for the Dean of Students Office, together with the Resident Directors, to sponsor a Senior Celebration. This year's Celebration was held on February 10, 1981. The Celebration began with a social, where the Seniors gathered as a group for one of the last times. At 6 p.m., the Seniors were served a delicious prime rib dinner. A slide show, prepared by the Resident Directors, followed. The R.D.'s had discreetly taken pictures of every senior at Regis. Laughter, love, and tears filled the room, as all realized that 4 years were quickly coming to a close. The Celebration slowly ended, as the Seniors lingered and asked each other, "Remember when . . ."

THE PROPHET

Farewell to you and the youth I have spent with you.

It was but yesterday we met in a dream

You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky

But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.

The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to fuller day, and we must part.

If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.

And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.
